ALMA MATER

Towering far above her neighbors,
Shop and mart and hall,
Stands the home of student-labors,
Noblest of them all!

At each meeting, give her greeting,
Raise the proud salute!
Hail to thee, our Alma Mater,
Hail, Pratt Institute!

In our hearts her precepts linger,
Her example gleams,
Showing with unerring finger
Guerdon of our Dreams.

At our meeting, for our greeting,
Bring her noble fruit,
Hail to thee, our Alma Mater,
Hail, Pratt Institute!

Round the world the chain extending,
Each to the other binds,
All her honored name defending,
Hearts and hands and minds.

At our meeting, give her greeting,
Raise the proud salute!
Hail to thee, our Alma Mater,
Hail, Pratt Institute!

DEDICATION

---

TO Miss Gilbert whose dynamic personality has impressed the girls of Pratt Institute with the need for good sportsmanship and the earnest desire to coöperate.

---

TO Mr. Wright whose friendship has inspired the boys of Pratt Institute with the importance of true fraternal spirit and fair play.

---

TO both of our friends for their loyalty to us, the student body, we gratefully dedicate the 1935 PRATTONIA.

FOREWORD

The following pages were compiled in an effort to preserve for all time something of the events and memories of the past year. It is impossible to record everything, because of the extensive interests and activities. We feel, however, that we have included those things which were outstanding and deserve recognition.

A good book is one of man's most treasured possessions. We hope that the following record shall prove a treasure chest to every student of Pratt Institute, and shall help provide a tangible link between this happy year and the years to come.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

In the compiling of every yearly Prattonia there are a few, not connected with the Board, who work faithfully for the cause. This year the Board wishes to express its sincere thanks to four Prattonia Representatives for their earnest endeavors. We are indebted to Martha Casey for her excellent cover design. Ruth Greenberg deserves more credit than we can express for her untiring efforts in compiling the Literary work. Donald Pierce has contributed much to the publication by his fine lettering. To Ernest Hart, for his work in behalf of the Photograph Editors, we also express our thanks.

To each and every member of the student body, the Board extends its gratitude for the fine interest shown and contends that without this support Prattonia never could have been perpetuated.

To the Faculty Advisers, Mr. Petersen, Miss Duntz, Mr. MacKenzie, Mr. Millard, and Mr. Stevens, we accord our appreciation for their patience and worthy guidance.

To the Prattonia Class Representatives, who have fulfilled their tasks with interest and coöperation, the Board expresses its indebtedness.

Thanks are also extended to those concerns who have worked patiently and with much interest in completing the 1935 Prattonia:

FINE AND APPLIED ARTS

SCHOOL OF FINE AND APPLIED ARTS

The program of the School of Fine and Applied Arts has been developed during the present administration, now in its seventh year, upon two basic objectives which have contributed definitely toward its ever increasing success.

The first objective calls for a continuously changing program that synchronizes with the best contemporary professional practices. This is possible of realization only when the faculty and student body work together in terms of the business and art activities prevalent in the Commercial and Industrial worlds.

This presupposes a corps of instructors who themselves are leaders in the various professional art fields. We now have such a faculty. The students in turn must of necessity adopt an attitude of seriousness and application which, under the direction of this faculty, develops a wholesome professional atmosphere.

At the conclusion of such a three year program of study the graduate finds he is in the happy situation of having no gap to bridge between his art training and the workaday world.

The second objective, even more difficult to realize than the first, yet predicated upon it, maintains that the educational intent of the Art School is fully realized only when all its graduates are employed in the professional art field for which they are trained. While we are speedily approaching a realization of this second objective we can not rest content until this accomplishment is complete.

The degree to which we have already attained this result of the training offered in the Art School is impressively presented in the employment statistics compiled last fall from questionnaire data received from the 1934 three-year graduates, who totalled 181. Six months after graduation 93% were employed, of whom 91% were in the field for which they specialized. Even more encouraging was the fact that 69% of the mid-year Seniors, who then lacked one month of graduation, were already employed and all of them in art positions.

The three qualifications for graduation, stated in the order of their relative significance, present the students' responsibilities as contributors to the complete satisfaction of these two basic objectives. These qualifications are—First, that the graduate is a lady or gentleman; Second, that the graduate has acquired the business adaptation; Third, that the graduate has reached at least a minimum professional level in his art major.

It's June, the grandest month of the year, yet we seem a bit oblivious of the joys and happiness brought about by this time of season. Our days of school are over. Days spent steeping ourselves with knowledge, methods, practice, and the application of our art. Days which have comprised the most useful years of our lives. Time has passed too swiftly over these priceless years spent in the attainment of our goal and the realization of our ideal. To us all it seems our work has just begun yet June is here confidently thrusting us into the world, prepared to justify our study at Pratt Institute and daring a challenge of a world to conquer.

The time has come to look ahead and bid farewell to all our friends and faculty. To the latter, we bestow our sincere thanks in appreciation of their patient efforts to lead us toward our goal—success now rests on us alone. To our school and faculty we pledge allegiance. To our people whose endearing sacrifices have made possible our education we give our heartfelt thanks and sincere respect. The start has been successfully completed, the gates are opened wide, and with a smile we emerge. It's June—three years have gone by but we've just begun.

A R C H I T E C T U R E I I I

Three years ago, a group of boys entered Pratt to embark on a course of study of which they knew little or nothing. Little more than half of the original group is left. Even now that three years have passed we shall still have that feeling of stepping on unfamiliar ground when we hear ourselves pronounced as graduates. When we entered Pratt we were ignorant of the cost of construction, and the intricacies of design. Today, after three years of study, we are entering the workaday world which will cause even greater anxiety than we anticipated when we entered school.

Wherever we go when we leave Pratt, we shall always remember to put to practice the many things we have learned. Not only shall we practice our profession, but also good will and fair play.

Now that the time to say goodbye has come, it is difficult to leave our many friends. We may travel far and meet new friends, but we shall never forget our instructors and classmates.

We leave Pratt with a store of knowledge, many happy memories, and the will to fight for success and happiness. With these how can we lose?

ARCHITECTURAL CONSTRUCTION II

In the fall of '33, the construction class started to learn the vertical and horizontal phases of a new career, Architecture. Under the supervision of Mr. Pope we became acquainted with the rudiments of architectural detail. We began to understand that there is more to architecture than mere drawing, that architecture is not the simple formation of lines without any thought.

This year under the expert guidance of Mr. Price and Mr. Munson, we have learned to detail and calculate practical plans. We now feel that we can design anything from a simple entrance lantern to a modern skyscraper.

A series of lectures by prominent men, and interesting trips to buildings both complete and in the process of construction have given us a practical knowledge of the various problems which arise on the job.

In the athletic and social fields the architects have been eminently successful, and have done their best to uphold the tradition of the class.

Feeling in a reminiscent mood, we sat down the other evening to relive, in thought at least, the past three years of Pratt. We feel like a white-haired grandmother as we think of that day in September three years ago when the class of '35 entered Pratt for the first time. Even now that we are supposedly confident seniors, we get that slightly dazed feeling we had the first week or so of wandering around looking for our next class. Our first year was spent absorbing a training that was to be a foundation for our future work at Pratt.

In September '33, we met again, a smaller class but ready to get down to rock-bottom as far as Fashion Illustration was concerned. To us, Fashion was spelled in capital letters, and our life was a composite of Vogue, Harper's Bazaar, Fashion shows, and window shopping. This second year went so quickly that it seemed more like a stepping stone between our first and third years. Our first plates were faintly reminiscent of contemporary technique, but from these grew, slowly but surely, drawings expressing attempts at our own original techniques.

At last we came to our third and final year. Like most seniors, when we look at the first year classes we feel quite superior and as if we knew a great deal, but when we think of stepping out into the cold cruel world, most of us don't feel quite so confident. However, we are sincerely trying to make the most of this year, and we expect to turn out a class worthy of our training.

DeLORETO, LILLIS*"Lillis"

218 Edgewood St., Hartford, Conn.

An habitue of the famous Harry's and another neighbor of the equally famous Katie Hepburn. That seraphic countenance hides a multitude of very minor sins and a well-known sense of humor. Another pair of inseparables: Lillis and Dot.

HALL, BEATRICE*"Bea"

Spring St., Huntington, L. I., N. Y.

Athletic Representative '34; Volley Ball, Baseball, Glee Club.

"Oh, to be in England now." Another participant in the daily orgies on the Long Island. A perfect stooge for Allie's jokes. Famous for turning the most elegant model into a ducky East Indian in quick sketchy days.

HENRIQUES, EUNICE*"Eunice"

17-1 West 10th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Modish, clever, and perfectly groomed. Claims to have had her name mispronounced by all the best people. Her technique in fashion, we mean, is faultless—she's absolutely the top.

LUNDLELL, ROSALIND*"Ros"

1720 University Ave., New York, N. Y.

Class Secretary-Treasurer '34, '35; Glee Club.

An orchid to you, Ros, for succeeding successfully in living through two years of being our class treasurer, besides being a grand sport and a hard worker.

FLETCHER, DOROTHY*"Dot"

8918 Shore Court, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class President '35; Student Council '35.

Our congenial and clever president has often entertained us with her mimicry, poetry, and harmonizing. Her fondness for Harry's has made it popular rendezvous for many in our class. Famous last words—"Who would you rather marry—me or —?"

HEIM, ALICE*"Allie"

170 Whitehall Boulevard, Garden City, L. I., N. Y.

Volley Ball.

What would we do without Allie's laugh to startle us from our usual lethargy once in a while? Does her daily good deed by cheering up the commuters on the Long Island train.

HOWE, ELINOR*"Lyn"

Wailuku, Maui, Territory of Hawaii

Class Vice-President '34; Pratinotia Representative '35; Glee Club.

Except for the fact that she insists upon drawing pineapples, palm trees, and hula girls, one would never guess that Lyn comes from Hawaii. Sorry, boys—the "object of her affections" is in said islands.

MARTINO, ANTOINETTE*"Tony"

171 Siquiney St., Hartford, Conn.

Women's Club Representative '34, '35.

Another New Englander with that fierce loyalty to Hartford that marks our dear teacher and another member of our class. Tony's infectious smile and those black eyes certainly have what it takes.

MAY, ROSE

"Rose"

223 East 43rd St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

A striking example of success without effort. A languid young lady with candid brown eyes, a propensity for bacteriology lectures, and a quiet wit that keeps popping up unexpectedly.

MONTGOMERY, DOROTHY

"Dot"

9 Belden Ave., Yonkers, N. Y.

Yonker's gift to Pratt. Her chief characteristics are her friendliness and her dandy work. Her favorite indoor sports are knitting, motorcycle racing, and, teasing Alan.

REICHENBACHER, RUTH

"Ricky"

740 East 5th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

We predict success in a big way for Ricky. Her personality and her smart illustrations are a grand combination that should carry her far.

ROBERTS, FLORENCE

"Flo"

4729 Reiger Ave., Dallas, Texas

Texas may be famous for its cowboys and ranches and great open spaces, but it also seems to produce budding fashion illustrators. We hate to be trite and add "Pardon my Southern accent," but—

SLACHTER, JEANETTE

"Jeanette"

2319 61st St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Jeanette is a very recent member of the class, but energy and ability have gotten her to first rank. If you've heard her at the piano, you will agree with us that she is an artist in more ways than one.

STEVENS, RUTH

"Stevie"

63 Vincent Place, Lynbrook, L. I., N. Y.

A wise child with a fertile imagination. The self-appointed guardian of the Popular Male Trio and a steady customer at the College Drug.

MOLITOR, BLANCHE

"Blanche"

7721 Ridge Boulevard, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Swimming

This personable child has ambitions as illustrious as her work. A macabre whistle, a Degas complex, and a lust for life mark her as one of the most artistic in our class.

NACHMAN, CEIL

"Angelina"

417 East 52nd St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

This gorgeous dark damsel has proved herself delightfully assertive. Her ability and ambition combine to make her work excellent. We hear congratulations are in order.

REISER, JOHN

"Johnny"

3732 64th St., Woodside, L. I., N. Y.

Basketball '33, '34, '35.

The charter male member of our class. His basketball ability is school history, and his fashion work is equally as good. We love the Prussian haircut.

SCHEU, FRANCES

"Fran"

529 8th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Paletteer Representative '35.

A study in smart clothes, red nails, and blonde curls—the Greeks had a word for it but we call it Fran. What has happened to "Little Audrey?"

STRAUSS, HELEN

"Helen"

67 Cliff Ave., Yonkers, N. Y.

Prattonia Representative '34.

Another good sport from Yonkers—Helen is as smart in her work as she is in her appearance. The long and short of it—Helen and Eunice.

YOUNG, ALAN

"Alan"

309 East 22nd St., Chester, Pa.

This titian-topped lad from Chester, Pa. is the third and last man to join Fashion Illustration III. We wonder if he knows the way to Yonkers yet.

We are about to embark on the longest span of our lives; our life work. We have undergone our period of preparedness and now we reach our goal, only to find a new purpose ahead of us. This new purpose is more illusionary and difficult of attainment than the first.

This difficulty is due to the vague, unformed ideas concerning our desires in our new lives.

Here we pause upon the mountain-top we have reached, and look back with mingled feelings upon our past experiences and endeavors.

And then again we turn our faces forward toward the new horizon. We had thought this time would be a period of triumphant basking in the sun. But suddenly we find our work is not yet done.

We are fortified and encouraged by our present successes; and we go into the world with a pleasant, comforting sense of being well trained for our selected occupation. May the world treat us kindly.

Now comes the end. The end of three happy years together. Let us glance back:

Three years ago we came to New York, strangers to one another and to the city. We met; our lives became interwoven, interlocked as in a jigsaw puzzle. At the end of the year our puzzle was divided into two pictures, each a separate unit but still to a certain extent dependent on each other. For two years the members of this smaller class have grown and worked together.

Now the puzzle is to be taken apart. We have completed our work together and are no longer useful as a whole. We are to be separated and scattered. We have our shapes and places in this puzzle. How long before we find new places to fit our limited shapes? We start on a new quest, a quest for life and success.

Now comes the end—or is it the beginning?

PICTORIAL ILLUSTRATION III

In many respects we graduates of this year's Pictorial Illustration class may consider ourselves very fortunate. We are entering the outside world when production in all fields seems to have passed its lowest ebb, and our class has remained fairly well intact since first we passed through the doors of Pratt 'way back in the fall of '32.

"Way back," you may say, and yet the years here at school have passed all too quickly. During this time our instructors have taken us from a state of comparative ignorance and have led us through the stage of realizing our shortcomings, aided us in correcting them, and have helped us to find our proper place in our chosen field of art. In this last we have been most fortunate since now, more than ever, the school has been extremely conscientious in its efforts to prepare us to earn our way by fortifying us with the sound advice of professional men who have been "through the mill" and have passed some of their invaluable experience along to us.

Individually we believe we have done much to cause both our school and our class to be proud of us, and we sincerely hope that we shall help to fulfill Pratt's aim in becoming successful men and women.

It is impossible to match with words the countless happy and important events of our lives here. Each of us has his own particular memories to cherish, his own fast friendships; but we have one thing in common, we shall never wish to say goodbye to the place that has meant so much in our lives, to Pratt we simply say, "Au revoir."

PICTORIAL ILLUSTRATION III X

It doesn't seem quite possible that our three year stay at Pratt has almost come to a close. Why it has only been within the last year that we have become conscious of time at all; conscious of the pleasant time we have spent here and of the fact that we must leave and that others will take our places.

On looking back it seems that our first two years here were years of training. They were years when the substance of our craft was driven home. It was with zest that we entered the final year to try our hands at the work for which we had prepared ourselves unencumbered by anything which might detract from our work or our zeal.

As freshmen perhaps we were wont to chafe under the business-like routine and efficiency for which the school stands. It may be that it was something we didn't expect to find here, nevertheless it is something for which we are extremely thankful. That languid quality which is more or less traditional with the arts was uprooted at the very start before it had time to unfit us for a place in modern business.

We thank Pratt for the feeling of confidence it has instilled in us. Confidence backed by the knowledge that nowhere else could we have gotten the training we have received here. We are proud of our school, and we hope she will have reason to be proud of us.

TEACHER TRAINING III

"... a teacher has work and much to do,
And it's good at last to know it's through."

These lines do express our feelings about our work, but somehow they fall short when our stay at Pratt is concerned. The years at school have sped by quite rapidly. We entered three years ago with an idea that some day, far off, we would emerge as full fledged teachers. We were a bit surprised when our course was presented to us; a course consisting of life drawing, water color, design, modeling, advertising, and so on. Were teachers to study such subjects? We only realize now the fine basis they make for further study. For the next two years we couldn't decide whether we were to be sign painters, interior decorators, jewelers, or stage hands. Gradually, however, academic studies appeared in our curriculum, until finally we were up to our necks in lesson plans, speech outlines, and units; each term bringing more work. A greater feeling of unity, a spirit of coöperation, and good fellowship pervaded the class and grew stronger with each passing month.

And now it is to end. We realize, however, that it is just the end of the beginning, and the rest is up to us as individuals. It is hard to believe that we are on the threshold of our careers and that our pursuits may take each on a divergent course.

We can only square our shoulders, look our classmates in the eye and say:

"You to the left and I to the right,
For the ways of men must sever.
And it well may be for a day and a night,
And it well may be forever."

In quite the usual manner of previous years, our class of future Advertising designers met, became acquainted, and then settled down to the well known grind. In this group of students, eager to adapt themselves to their new problems, was revealed considerable talent, which, although hidden at first, bloomed readily under the influence of our skilled instructors.

During the course of the year, we all became interested in packaging which offered rather stiff competition not only in our class problems but also in several outside contests. Our very capable instructor Mr. Longyear placed valuable contacts at our disposal when he submitted some of the best work in a professional exhibition at the Hotel New Yorker. Our other classes have also held our interest, as instruction and philosophic advice have been pleasantly administered by such past masters at the art as Mr. Ajootian and Mr. Cimiotti. Our photography and process classes taught us much of the technique of our course.

It is impossible to omit mention of athletics as several members of our group were quite prominent in soccer, basketball, swimming, and baseball.

It is with great sincerity that we offer our thanks to that grand group of instructors who pulled, shoved, and coaxed us over the second part of our rough and exciting journey in Mr. Boudreau's magnificent "Advertising Agency." We certainly have been convinced that when drawing a lion, one must draw a lion and not a tiger.

From the time we convened on September 10th, the 1936 class of architecture has been finding itself, as it were; and is rapidly becoming a class of first rate artists.

As soon as the ice was broken by the architects first Smoker and Howdy Dance, friendships began to form, and the atmosphere of congeniality prevailed. Our conception of instructors as old-fashioned school masters, was changed. Students lost the timidity that marks the entrance of a person into a new environment. The fear of heavy demands for work of professional accuracy faded into the background. Classes became more interesting as better understanding of the work and coöperation between the teachers and student progressed.

The class of 1936 has been active in the intramural sports, as well as the social functions of the Institute. The eight first men on the squad helped the architects to win the soccer championship. In addition, we had three men on the basketball team, four men on the swimming team, and one man on the bowling team.

The associations formed, and the contacts made as a result of our coming to Pratt Institute have already proven their value, and lead us to look forward to many years of pleasant competent work, both within the walls of Pratt Institute and in our chosen profession.

In early fall a group of students, steps faltering, and minds dazed, filed into our Alma Mater. The strangeness of their position knew no bounds, as their unfamiliar eyes looked upon the surroundings. Unaccustomed to the atmosphere, they adapted themselves to their work with wonder and admiration. The realization of it seemed too true, for at last their cherished dreams and hopes had materialized. These students were now in college.

A short time having elapsed, this group found themselves in a whirling maze. Disillusion, nearly resulting in despair, hovered over many; but their attempts were not in vain, for there came encouragement. New hopes were formed, new desires were expressed, and there came a rebirth of animation in their pursuance of the arts.

To-day, the students of design are carrying on with renewed energy and vitality, that they too may achieve the goal set for them. They fervently hope that they may successfully complete the two remaining years.

--And so ends our second year at Pratt. We won't believe it until we return again as seniors. Time passes so quickly when you are doing the job you like best. The course this year has been food to our fashion hungry souls. It was our first real study in the fashion field—and we have revelled in it.

It's true we're not a model class. When we were only in our first year we had a great length of tongue, and a failing for extending the rest period. And I regret to report we have changed very little, but—and it's a big but—we do get our work done. Some of it shows exceptional talent, the rest shows ability. Every one of us has improved under Miss Lincoln's watchful eye.

In the art field, if you are of normal ability as most of us are, you need courage and perseverance. Being a healthy, optimistic crowd, we feel we have both. And with these two attributes, though we may not "wow" the world in the future we'll carry along with it.

Why shouldn't we do well? We have the best staff of instructors, the best contacts, excellent speakers, valuable exhibitions, and plenty of good advice. For all that, we of Fashion Illustration II thank you—and watch our pep next year!

Our Entrance into Pratt Institute could not by any stretch of the imagination be called graceful. For days we tottered about under the weight of numerous drawing boards, portfolios, bottles, and boxes. We murmured room numbers distractedly, and generally gave the impression of being a first year class.

Now that we have grown calmer and more orderly we are able to take stock of our assets and liabilities.

We find that we are able to look back upon a year profitable and enjoyably spent, that we have learned much of draftsmanship and more of sportsmanship.

We have only begun our school years, but when we have finished we hope to become, with the aid of our instructors, fine artists and worthy men and women.

We were all rather lost on our first day at Pratt, and wondered if we would ever become a part of this great school. After the cordial welcome from Mr. Boudreau, however, we began to feel more at ease and started our work with "pep" and enthusiasm.

Time sped swiftly and before long we were a well knit unit, working as one and participating in the many social functions of the school.

We gained a new understanding and appreciation of the extensive field of art through the inspiration of our teachers, through exhibitions, and visiting speakers.

Now that our first year draws to a close, we feel that our class has established a definite record. Those first hurried, hazy days are but memories, and we have worked our way successfully through one term in the school we are all proud to call "Alma Mater."

On September 11, 1934, Memorial Hall was filled with new students. Each face glowed with anticipation and ambition as every student listened to the words of welcome by Mr. Boudreau.

Scattered among the newcomers were members of our division—IC. We are a class of thirty-nine girls. Each has her own particular goal. For some of us it is Pictorial Illustration. A few aim toward Advertising, and the rest hope to be fine Fashion Illustrators.

We will always think of this, our first year, with fondness. At first everything was strange. We had to accustom ourselves to new mediums and new routines. We also had to make new friends, but all of these were very interesting. Of course everyone of us, at one time or other, has experienced moments of doubt and discouragement, but through the aid of our instructors our inspiration was renewed. Despair or encouragement, it was all a part of the work we enjoy.

Having completed the first hazardous year, we grow retrospective over our growth. We find that we have become more painstaking, neat, and businesslike in our procedure, freer in our sketching, and have broadened our technical knowledge.

We are looking forward to our next year with even greater anticipation. Then we begin to specialize in a particular field, bringing us nearer to the success we are all aiming for.

If one should look in upon our class one would find an extremely jolly and conscientious group. We have an enthusiasm for our work which makes us feel almost sure of success.

Ours is a class always well represented at social functions. We entertained at the Teacher Training dinners, and to judge by the laughter called forth from our audience, we were highly successful.

Lest we be misjudged as a frivolous group we hasten to inform you that instructive as well as social events have been well attended. This year there have been some changes made in our schedule. We have a new and different course in museum research. Small groups have studied the peoples of foreign countries, and have presented the results of their study in an interesting manner. The work of our design class has been correlated with these studies, and many unusual things have been produced through their inspiration.

Our class has been well represented on the basketball team by Gilman and Mardy, and on the soccer team by Coccamo, Pasante, and Gilman.

Now at the completion of our first year, we look forward to two years even more pleasant and more successful.

The members of the class of January, 1938, met for the first time "en masse" early in February and were quaintly dubbed "that I X group," our predecessors having made a definite impression upon the school.

After a few blunders, which freshmen always make, we became acquainted with the many idiosyncrasies of Pratt. The friendliness of the faculty and older students helped to break the ice. Our class officers were elected with careful consideration, and not once have we regretted our choice of leaders. Now we are ready to continue with our objective, which is to achieve a high standard of perfection in our chosen field.

Many thanks to the Paletteers, Artsmen, and Architects who started our social career with the "Howdy" dance.

Despite the fact that our class contains many and varied talents we all work in unison, for we feel that harmony is essential. With this in mind we are looking forward to three glorious, industrious years at Pratt.

The major portion of the 2X class, having successfully overcome the vicissitudes of the first year and drifted through the comparative calm of the second, has completed more than half of its career at Pratt Institute.

Some of the members of the original class have already entered the professional world, but their places have been filled by newcomers, eyes alight for the battle and striving to forge ahead of the charter members.

As is usual with the X classes, most of us come from the metropolitan area, but at that we are a cosmopolitan group embracing most of the nations and creeds. As for political differences, many and varied have been the arguments thereon.

Some of our classmates have already carved their names upon the Institute's roll of outstanding students. But we neither rest upon our laurels nor undertake that which would be too much for us. We forge ahead in a steady effort to gain that which will be good and useful.

We are looking forward to the remainder of our stay at Pratt, and are eager for the knowledge which we will assimilate during the coming year and a half.

Those of us who were the Design I class of yesterday are the Industrial II class of today, having severed connections with the Interior Decorators, and added to our number some far-seeing students from the more "fine" and less "applied" divisions.

We really belong to the fifth floor now and we are rather glad of it. We draw free hand no longer. We whip our ideas into line with the scale rule and a set of instruments. No one, however, can deny that we are creative. Success in various contests has proved this. The wallpaper competition sponsored by the Reynolds Metal Co. ended with the first and third prizes in the possession of members of our class. At this writing the International Silver Co. competition is still in progress, and the winners to be are still at work and unaware of approaching honors.

We have enjoyed a hilarious year with our senior co-designers, and we now feel that we can restyle anything from a common pin to a steam calliope.

Never has there been a group more closely knit in a friendly and competitive spirit. The severing of our original class has not destroyed the coöperation and professional attitude. We are an organization, each doing his part to fulfill the objective—to become successful decorators.

The work of this year has developed in each and every student the desire to produce his ideas for the home in a new and different way. Extensive research for modern as well as period rooms has given each of us more foresight in our planning, and more confidence in being able to retain good design in the livable home.

While we have coöperated to the fullest extent in our class work, coöperation has not been lacking in the interest of school activities. Each member has joined with his officers and committees in behalf of all extra-curricular functions.

With the completion of our second year, we feel that we have succeeded in keeping up the standards; and that, with our present rate of development, we should produce some new and different ideas for the decoration of the home during our senior year. In the beginning we were hopeful, in advancement we have been confident, should not the conclusion with interest and perseverance produce fine results?

Our advent into the second year left us with a sensible perception that we are only beginning a struggle, the culmination of which lies in the laps of the gods.

The grave variety of personalities, which our class exhibits, makes for an originality of style and a wholesome competitive spirit.

Our class has shown a certain frivolity, which we hasten to assure you is not foolish but merely indicative of our purpose to enjoy life as fully as we are able. The road we travel may be difficult but it is a road of our own choice and we shall trudge on with a will.

We are grateful to our instructors who, by their sympathy and understanding, have instilled in us high ideals of esthetics while they taught sound draughtsmanship. To them and to our fellow students we extend our thanks for a well balanced year of work and recreation.

On that day in September, when the class of Illustration ID became Teacher Training II, most of us did not fully realize the responsibility which that development put upon our shoulders. Of course, it was quite clear that a new year lay before us. But how well filled the days of that year were to be was barely guessed.

As the weeks rolled by, our class took its position on the faculty of the Saturday morning school. Ours is the second class to gain practice teaching experience during its second year. Through the able supervision of one of our classmates, the attendance system of the children's classes was reorganized. Another of our members helped to introduce art appreciation courses into the Saturday school. Teacher Training II was also well represented on the board of supervisors. All this proved that the second year students were both capable and willing to carry the responsibility of practice teaching.

Our class also shone in the social circles. We gave the customary dinners to the department, introducing outstanding figures in the educational field as speakers. Also from time to time we entertained the department at teas. In this small way Teacher Training II helped to build up the comradeship between the various classes in accordance with Pratt ideals.

Probably the most outstanding thought that we shall have as a group when this year has come to a close is the development of our individual powers and personalities. Of course there were dark moments when assignments were piling up toward the end of the term. Yet when the cloud had lifted who among us would have changed his lot?

SCHOOL OF HOUSEHOLD SCIENCE AND ARTS

The School of Household Science and Arts offers highly specialized courses in clothing, in foods and in homemaking. The professional courses prepare for designing, construction and merchandising of clothing, or for the various phases of foods and nutrition work in commercial and institutional fields. The non-professional course prepares the way for effective homemaking.

Keeping clearly in mind the policies of the Founder of Pratt Institute, the School aims to meet the needs of those who desire thorough technical training with economy of time and money. The courses are intensive in character with theory and practice inter-related. They are placed to embody the best in fundamental principles and sound practice, and are sufficiently flexible to keep pace with the trends of industry. The students are surrounded by the influences which make for character and integrity of work, and are stimulated and guided to develop qualities which make for understanding, appreciation, coöperation and leadership.

History? Our two years at Pratt Institute will not be so much history in our lives, rather a time of preparation. A period of carefree joy and knowledge glimpsed but not fully grasped.

Much has happened in these years to help us grow. We have worked with each other in the atmosphere of a custom workroom, and against each other in competition. We have done work for the satisfaction of the workmanship, and work to be judged and criticized by professionals in the Fashion World. We have had a climax each year in the Wanamaker Fashion Show when we exhibited our designs before a critical public.

Our work, however, we will continue, we hope successfully, in the years to come. The privileges of a student which we have enjoyed here are best to be remembered. The playing together through competitive sport, and the social meeting at teas and dances.

Our graduation will be a commencement not an ending. We will go on eagerly trusting an education to carry us over the depression and the same education to steady us at the top.

We will look forward to reunions when we may tell of the history we are about to make and "lest we forget"——

S E N I O R   D I E T E T I C S

Now that we are approaching the culmination of our schooling, we cannot help but recall those words of yearly connotation—Ave! Vale! What two different meanings do they convey to the Mind? The one bursting forth with high hopes, anticipation, and enthusiasm; the other carrying spurts of regret and remorse.

Two years have passed since first we hopefully crossed the threshold of Pratt Institute. Those two years have brought about great changes in most of us. In our first year our hearts were filled with dreams, dreams that did not always withstand the hard knocks of fate, but dreams so purposeful that they did stand the test of remodeling wrought by the more mature thought of our senior year. This change in us was especially perceived after our summer training. We returned grown in our ideas, in our ideals, in our attitude toward life. This more mature attitude began to assume shape with our renewed interest in conference hours, in class discussions, and in school affairs. Evidence of this has been displayed in our formation of a Dietetic's Club. It is the organization that will link us closely with the students of future years.

Behind us we leave weary days, and happy days. But before leaving we wish to extend our appreciation to those who have helped to make our days at Pratt memorable ones.

To our director we wish to express our thanks for all those notes of wisdom he gave to us. To the faculty we owe the moulding of our characters in an important period of life. To our president we say, "Thank you for your patience and perseverance."

We now say farewell with much regret, for we shall always have an undying love and respect for Pratt Institute and for all it means.

One of those rare persons who gets a high mark in that despicable Organic. Always studying until the wee hours of the morning, yet Maribelle finds time for shows and dances. The best of luck to a nice girl.

LUSARDI, ADA A. "Ada"

123 Hall St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Chairman Refreshment Committee, Swimming.

Ada will make a good dietician.
Some say that's her one ambition.
But the others who know her better
Know when she receives that letter.

McGRATH, CATHERINE M. "Kay"

9 St. Charles Pl., Brooklyn, N. Y.

President Dietetics Club, Pratonia Representative, Swimming.

Courageous, strong, of noble soul,
Spirit uplifted, happy heart
Pure success will be her goal,
On the stage of life a leading part.

MacVICAR, DOROTHY B. "Dottie"

Falaise, Port Washington, N. Y.

Athletic Representative, Volley Ball, Swimming.

A source of good humor
Happy and free
Good natured, adorable
Cute as can be

MAFFEY, ELLA A.

"Ella"

761 Kearney Ave., Arlington, N. J.

Vice-president New Jersey Club.

She's part!
She's dynamic!
She's exciting!
Who? What?
The Maffey personality.

MARDIN, MARIE E.

"Marie"

111 Stevens Ave., Portland, Maine

Quiet and unassuming
Pleasant to meet,
A maid of quiet ways
But one who's hard to beat.

MATCHETT, ETHEL M.

"Ethel"

32 Dover St., Paterson, N. J.

Orchestra Committee Senior Prom., New Jersey Club, Hackey, Swimming, Volley Ball.

Quiet in manner,
Ambitious in work,
Honorable in every word and deed.

MAY, GERTRUDE

"Gert"

62 East 43rd St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Volley Ball, Swimming, Chemistry Tutor.

Gert—loving, gentle, and kind
Has dark wavy hair, a scientific mind,
And when you're in trouble beyond compare
Her advice so full of wisdom she'll gladly spare.

MARKOFF, ESTHER M.

"Essie"

608 Warwick St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Sincere of purpose, loyal to Pratt
Conceals a load of brains beneath a tilted hat.

A little girl, a sweet girl, no dust will cause her strife
As she goes along seeking her place in life.

MICHOTINSKY, BERTHA

"Mickey"

2668 Atlantic Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mickey, our pal, a type all her own
Her friendship with us has steadily grown,
Stodious, industrious, a serious femme
Knows her work, and she's a whiz in them.

MOHR, JULIANNA

"Julianna"

21 Orchard St., Cos Cob, Conn.

Loves many,
Trusts few,
She always paddles her own canoe.

MUNSON, MARY E.

"Mary"

89-11 198th St., Hollis, N. Y.

Always ready though she's frail,
Ever on the straightway trail,
Though as a dietician she will prevail
We know she'll soon grace the altar rail.

NICOSIA, JOSEPHINE A.

"Jo"

430 Cecilia Ave., Cliffside Park, N. J.

A regular gal, a swell pal
With eyes of sparkling black,
Gets her work done, so she's ready for fun,
In fact, has a boy friend named ———

OLSEN, IDA G.

"Ida"

328 15th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

A tall and sturdy lass is she
Who rings a laughter full of glee,
With every turn that's never bold
Pours out her heart that's full of gold.

O'NEIL, HELEN P.

"Nellie Mae"

155 Pomeroy Ave., Pittsfield, Mass.

Always smiling, always gay
And so we call her "Nellie Mae"
Although when talking her hands never rest
Next to an architect we love her best.

OSTROSKY, HELEN P.

"Helen"

1201 Green St., Endicott, N. Y.

A splendid student, a wonderful friend, a person who will do justice to Pratt where-ever she goes. May the credit she merits follow her through the future.

SENIOR D 19

RABINOW, J. ANNE

"Anne"

1702 West 6th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Chairman Program Committee, Dietetics
Club, Volley Ball, Baseball, Senior Tea
Committee.

Gentle of nature, Friendly, so grand
Never too busy to lend a helping hand,
Known to be willing and ready to give,
She'll make the world a better place in which to live!

RAYNOR, FRANCES J.

"Fran"

Westhampton, N. Y.

Basketball.

Fran—though quiet 'tis true
Finds nothing too much to do
For she's a wonderful girl
A friend through and through.

ROBINSON, HELEN C.

"Robbie"

Hillside Ave., Peekskill, N. Y.

Deep! Unfathomable as the ocean
Lovely in repose or in motion
Sometimes blue, sometimes gay,
She's captured our hearts in her inimitable way.

SCHLEGEL, MARGARET

"Buddie"

194-17 115th St., Jamaica, N. Y.

Where will you find another so charming?
Her whole-hearted smile is really disarming.
She always is trim, she's noted for neatness
And chocolate ice cream is her greatest weakness.

3 5

SCHWARZ, ELIZABETH S. "Betty"

8906 161th St., Jamaica, N. Y.

Orchestra Committee Junior Prom, Volley Ball.

Blond hair, brown eyes, charming
A snappy personality, sometimes alarming,
Sweet, petite, a popular lass,
Active inside and out of class.

SHELLING, ANNE H. "Annie"

3035 East 6th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Although we are in different parts
Little Annie will stay in our hearts
A little too plump, a little too short
We love her because she's a darn good sport.

SIMON, DOROTHY C. "Dorothy"

235 West 76th St., New York, N. Y.

She works—but not too hard;
She is serious, but knows when to laugh

SMITH, CAROLYN B. "Carol"

515 Miles St., Chippewa Falls, Wisconsin.

She is an excellent student—conscientious, honest, and loyal. She comes from the West. So friendly and full of charm that she has endeared herself to all.

SNYDER, DOROTHY A. "Dot"

1459 East 4th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Basketball, Hockey.

Conscientious, studious, quiet
One who'll plan a perfect diet
Not too sober, or not too gay
To be a true friend in every way.

SOLTIS, JOSEPHINE F. "Jo"

30 Trimble Ave., Clifton, N. J.

Quiet, charming and reserved
What she says is worth being heard.
Stubborn, quizzical, like a big sister
She'll have a host of friends who'll miss her.

STIGLER, FRANCES A. "Chuckie"

128 Warren St., Needham, Mass.

"Chuckie" is a jolly sport
Dietetics is her port
Personality is her sail
With it she will never fail

STRAETZ, ALICE "Straetzie"

8012 85th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Straetzie has a generous yen
Helping you if you say when.
Chicago is so far away
We hope she will not go to stay.

STROYNY, MILDRED W. "Mildred"

74 Linden St., Taunton, Mass.

We owe Mass. a vote of thanks because it sent us Mildred. Her winning smile and thoughtfulness will endure her to all who meet her. Lots of good luck and success, Mildred!

SWAN, EMILY H. "Emily"

Intelligent, charming
Friendly too,
A tribute paid to very few.

TAFT, ADELAIDE C. "Addie"

85-32 Abingdon Rd., Kew Gardens, N. Y.

Junior Class Secretary, President Home Economics Club, Hockey, Basketball.

Addie to us will always be
One of the ones in Pratt history
Who after achieving her hard earned goal
Will give it her best, heart and soul.

THORPE, LOIS G. "Lois"

Washington Ave., North Haven, Conn.

Basketball, Volley Ball.

Lois is a serious and prompt young miss
In studies and basketball she finds bliss
In her work she is never behind
And always frankly speaks her mind.

TREZISE, ORVILLE, M. "Orville"

140-28 Cherry Ave., Flushing, N. Y.

Chairman Orchestra Committee Junior Prom, Hockey.

Our Orville Trezise
Energetic and exceedingly wise
Never leaves it to fate
To arrange us a date
Regardless of age or size.

TUMBRIDGE, DOROTHY "Dot"

141 Willow St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Gentle of speech, refined of manner
Reserved yet determined, a marvelous planner.

VERNEY, ETHEL D. "Peanuts"

43-34 41st St., Long Island City, N. Y.

Causes gray hair, and is our pet peeve,
We'll miss her gay smile after we leave
Her funny expressions we heard with alarm.
We'll forget her faults and remember her charm.

WACKERLY, FLORENCE V. "Florence"

1744 East 21st St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Basketball.

Her smiling face and loyalty of heart make her a pleasant friend. May she always maintain that eagerness of spirit.
It should bring her happiness and success in all her undertakings.

She has the ability to accomplish that which she sets out to do—this alone assures her of untold success. A friend always willing to help; one of whom we are justly proud.

D R E S S M A K I N G

The members of the Dressmaking Class of 1935 have worked together in a wonderful spirit of friendliness. We feel that we have accomplished a great deal since our entrance in September. The first shirtwaist dress problem was extremely difficult but when it was over our spirits rose, and each problem has gone more smoothly. The smart and well made clothes which have been completed are proof of the fact that this class has not worked in vain.

Under Miss Duntz' instruction even the most inartistic of us have learned to draw the fashion figure, and enjoy doing it; while under Miss Govers' guidance, hand made linen blouses have become a thing of beauty. We are indebted to Miss Clark for her remarkable patience and earnest efforts to make our work interesting as well as instructive.

Our group has been a small but interested one. Each one of us has enjoyed her work at Pratt, and is confident that no better course could be had.

H O M E M A K I N G

On October 1, 1934 we ventured into Pratt looking like eighteen lost souls, but thanks to Miss Condit we soon found ourselves.

The year was crammed with excursions to all parts of the city. We could not possibly name them all, but a few were Sloan's House of Years, Model American Home on Park Avenue, The Salisbury Exhibit of portraits, and a lecture on flower arrangement at the Botanic Gardens.

Our social activities have been confined to entertaining at The Homemaking House. All of our instructors were guests at one time or another. We were able to exhibit all our accomplishments to our mothers and friends by entertaining them at our luncheons.

Lots of credit should go to our instructors for making this such a profitable and happy year for us all. For happy it truly has been—happy in new friends, new accomplishments, and new experiences in the realm of homemaking. This year has gone more rapidly than we could have ever imagined possible, and we are now ready to start forth with much more knowledge and ability than we possessed in October.

INSTITUTIONAL MANAGEMENT

On the eventful day that we assembled in Memorial Hall, little did we realize how much those around us and "Dear Old Pratt" would mean to us. Working together, making tough pie crust, spilling water in the tea room, playing basketball, and hunting for bacteria have only added to our friendship.

It has been a great pleasure to work with our instructors, who have simplified and set before us food and the consumers, their problems and their relationships.

How much we have enjoyed Pratt's social life, the teas, the Get-Together Club, the basketball games, and the dances! As our minds wander back over those happy days this song sings its way through our minds: "Hail Pratt Institute."

And now as we venture out to conquer our own little world we say goodbye to our friends, our faculty, and our school, hoping to be reunited soon in our work, friendships, and successes.

The Junior Costume Design class has been here but a short time. However, the time has been sufficient for us to realize that nowhere could we have chosen a more adequate place for obtaining the necessary knowledge of our particular field. The comparative few of our members who studied Dressmaking last year as a preliminary to the present course, express their utter satisfaction with the school by returning to continue.

At the beginning of the fall semester we were cordially received by both student body and faculty. A senior sister was assigned to each new girl, and in many cases this proved to be a helpful asset to the new student. We now extend our sincere appreciation to the Seniors for their kind assistance, and anticipate the time when we will be able to show similar consideration.

The year, to date, has been very interesting in that aside from our absorbing curricular activities we have had several teas and the whole school has given a number of dances.

We are eagerly looking forward to the remainder of this year and the ensuing one in which we hope to culminate our technical education in preparation for future contacts.

September brought a group of prospective students into Pratt Institute who were destined, in the short space of two years, to become one of the immortal classes.

Our first day we spent in Memorial Hall where we were formally introduced to our supervisors and told a few of the problems that might confront us as students. Before many weeks had passed our social activities were ushered in by a number of teas given to us by the faculty and our senior sisters.

In sports the talents so abundant among us began to show, and many of us joined clubs or tried out for teams such as Hockey, Volley Ball, and Swimming, or the Dancing and Fencing clubs. Here we received valuable training in sportsmanship and comradeship, which was to help us to appreciate our friends and counselors to a greater extent in the future.

And so, with a year to complete before we graduate, we cherish the hope that we will enjoy the remainder of our life at Pratt as much as we did the beginning, and that we will, as America's modern dietitians bring out new foods and new menus to satisfy even the most finicky and fastidious.

LIBRARY SCIENCE

LIBRARY AND SCHOOL OF LIBRARY SCIENCE

As Pratt Institute approaches the fiftieth anniversary of its founding the library accumulates anniversaries of its own each observed in a quiet way appropriate to its separate interests, yet having meaning for the Institute at large.

In 1935 the Librarian completed twenty-five years in office which, however, had more personal than general significance. The year 1935 marks the fortieth anniversary of breaking ground for the Library building. The larger significance of this is the measures to be taken during the year to complete the building's equipment from basement to roof, with conspicuous addition of a North Porch, the architect's plans for which are ready in detail.

This year the students and faculty of the School of Science and Technology, especially, have welcomed Mr. W. W. Shirley to the Reference Room of Science and Technology, where he and they find much in common in a friendly as well as professional way. The students of H. S. & A. are finding with Miss Alice Munson new relationships in the General Reference Room. And so new ties are binding closer the Library to the people across the street whom we serve.

The Library School is not celebrating a precise date this year, but Miss Kinloch, its new Secretary, has already added to the School's recognition among the Schools of the Institute, and though limited in numbers, the School asks to be counted not in terms of numbers but of effectiveness in its field.

SCHOOL OF LIBRARY SCIENCE

We are a small class in a large institution, and our history is brief. The whole of our career at Pratt Institute has been crowded into one breathless year. In October, former graduates of our school held a reception for our class. In the weeks that followed we established more informal relations among ourselves, largely due to the efforts of our friend and teacher, Miss Josephine Adams Rathbone. At several delightful teas, which Miss Rathbone gave for us at her home, we made a sincere effort to win for our friend the woman who gave us so much of her wisdom and guidance in the classroom. Through her we met other persons prominent in the library world who have come to us as visiting lecturers. In January we were invited to a luncheon at Sherry's and heard, as speakers, such distinguished persons as Stephen Vincent Benét and Carl Carmer. There were other festive occasions as well. Perhaps the most charming of all was a surprise Christmas party which Miss Rathbone gave for us. The North Room was completely transformed from an obvious classroom into a place of gay charm. The party left us with a warm glow of happiness.

Perhaps the most enjoyable experience of the year was the ten day trip which we took, under Miss Rathbone's chaperonage, to several libraries and colleges in New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Upon our return from that trip there was but scant time left before that day in June when our very small class left this large institution.

SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY

SCHOOL OF SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY

The present year is unique in the annals of the School of Science and Technology's day courses for reason of the non-existence of a graduating class of 1935. As usual, we have both first and second year classes, but, for the first time in the history of the School, the members of the second-year class will remain for an additional year, to become in June 1936, the initial graduates from the School's three-year courses. These lengthened courses, while retaining the distinctive character, intensive method and entire content of their two-year predecessors, have been greatly amplified and reinforced, the better to equip our students to serve modern society's increasing dependence upon the engineer and his ability to develop and apply science and technology to the purposes of man. Our improved, three-year courses, which parallel this country's conventional college of engineering in shorter, more objective, but highly efficient form, are yielding the expected larger satisfaction. Advantages continue to accrue as the new curricula go farther into effect. Our Class of 1936 is worthily sustaining the honor and the responsibility of marching at the head of this notable advance in the interests of continued success for Pratt Institute and its graduates in the field of engineering training and employment.

We are now two-thirds of the way through our course, and are looking forward to our final year at Pratt Institute when we shall begin our optional work in Industrial Chemistry. In September the class returned to the wars somewhat depleted. Several members were unable to return. Those of us who did, however, have had a wonderful year. We have become an active part of the Institute, and no longer feel like strangers as we did a year ago. At the beginning of the year and again in January we welcomed into the class several members of other classes who felt that they would benefit more by chemistry than by some other form of engineering.

Since our course has been lengthened and we are to return in September, we could not participate in any of the activities of the graduating classes. Those functions belonging to the Chemistry School, however, such as the Wohler Society and the departmental dinner were carried on as if there had been no change in the program of the school.

During the year the class placed representative teams on the diamond, on the basketball court, and in all other branches of inter-class sports.

We now look forward to a vacation of work and play in which to refresh ourselves and renew our energy for the year which lies ahead.

Carrying on our first year's slogan: "Success is born of resolution," the class began its second year and moved into its work and extra-curricular activities with renewed vigor.

Each member has enthusiastically cooperated with the class officers, and our scholastic achievements have been equaled by our athletic record.

Several interested members of our class organized a Radio Club which was supported by several instructors and our supervisor. This club has become a smoothly functioning part of the school.

The management of the S. and T. convention was under the supervision of the A.I.E.E. this year, and it was generally conceded that the members of this class showed unusual talent for stage production.

Our technical paper, The Electrical Echo, was in better condition financially than it has ever been. Almost all of the men agreed that the many unusual features newly incorporated into it made the paper an enjoyable feature of the year.

The many difficulties which have confronted the members of our class have been overcome with the friendly aid of our instructors who have been much more to us than teachers. Only now do we begin to appreciate the encouragement and wholehearted kindness of these men, whom we count among our greatest friends.

When we reentered the portals of our Alma Mater in September, we proceeded to enjoy our superiority by indulging in a snooty chuckle whenever we saw the poor Freshies peering behind doors trying to calculate their next classes without the use of the slide-rule. We were to be "top-dogs" for two years so we gave the Freshies a break, and very little discipline was administered.

Our class showed its prowess in athletics, and we carried on the traditions of the Mechanical classes. We are especially proud of our record in basketball, swimming, and bowling.

Calculus, and materials of engineering raised their ugly heads and made us realize that we were within the gates for a purpose.

Our dance was a success in every sense of the word except in the crass sense of the financial. Oh well, we still have another year in which to make money! Our officers have functioned with an apparent effortless ease, and only made themselves objectionable long enough to collect the dues. Now is the ideal time to thank them for their work in our behalf. They were certainly appreciated.

After becoming accustomed to our surroundings in a school new to us, we called a class meeting for the election of officers. A short time later we were called upon to elect two officers to the Wohler Chemical Society. Those decided upon were Robert Mathews, Vice-President; John Stankus, Secretary.

Together with the second year men we formed a soccer team to uphold the standards of the chemists. Although the team did not win the championship, it made a very fine showing by winning three games and losing only one. Later a chemists' basketball team was organized, and although it was weakened by having so many men on the varsity and junior varsity, it was considered by many to be one of the best teams on the court.

Because we have been in school for such a short time, we have found it difficult to make a great showing in everything we have undertaken. But before we leave the portals of our Alma Mater, we hope to be the best class that the school has ever had.

In September 1934, a group of fifty-six students enrolled in the Electrical Engineering class of '37. They were determined to achieve success and were, therefore, willing to work at their studies and co-operate with their instructors. The class has shown fine spirit in entering into the extra-curricular activities offered by our school. Its members are represented on the staff of the Electrical Echo and in the A.I.E.E. Its class organizations include soccer, swimming, basketball, and baseball teams. The Group feels that it has not only made scholastic progress but has broadened its social horizons through association with the student body and members of the faculty. Now at the completion of a successful year they are looking forward with enthusiasm to the two remaining years at Pratt Institute

On September 11, 1934, seventy-six young men entered Pratt Institute to give their undivided attention to the words of welcome and wisdom by their new course supervisor Mr. Dale. After this cordial welcome, they were assigned to their classes and soon began the foundation for a new career.

As the first weeks passed on they attended the smoker, the teas, and the other functions designed to familiarize them with the school and its activities. It wasn't long before the class had settled down to serious endeavor. Class officers were elected, and the formulation of a budget for handling all class expenditures was begun. In these affairs a fine spirit of coöperation was displayed.

In athletics the first sport of the year was soccer. An enthusiastic team of eleven men represented the class in this game, but it was not very successful. In basketball the class enjoyed a little more success. In swimming our group won the school championship. Baseball practice is being attended with great interest, and a successful season is hoped for. The class has been represented on the varsity basketball, baseball, and fencing teams. We can be proud of the fine display of sportsmanship.

Class pins and emblems have been purchased, but it is still a question as to whether we shall buy jackets or hats. A dance has been planned for some future time, and a committee has been appointed to investigate this matter. The entire class is looking forward to more and better things in the future.

THE SOCIAL
MERRY-GO-ROUND

SCHOOL GUIDE

1. RECREATION HALL--Where one attempts dancing, if one can avoid the bumps in the floor.
2. SWIMMING POOL--The place to go if you're afraid of the water. (One at a time, please.)
3. LIBRARY--A bunch of books held together by four walls.
4. REST HOUSE--Standard remedy for all ills: castor oil and aspirin.
5. MEMORIAL HALL--Just a place. (Recommended for sleeping or thinking up new games.)
6. GYMNASIUM--Where the Pratt varsity takes on all opponents--that is, under 135 pounds.
7. CAFETERIA--Good food at popular prices--well, good food.
8. PRATT PARK--The campus.
9. SUNSHINE ALLEY--Where the Palet-teers view the Engineers--and what a view the Artsmen get!
10. CHEM. LAB.--The Chemists' sanctuary. A game room to everyone else.
11. ARCHITECTS' LIBRARY--Where the Architects perform. Special balcony seats for the floor show.
12. ENTRANCE TO EAST BLDG.--The smokers retreat. And they usually do when instructors appear on the scene.
13. RYERSON ST. ENTRANCE--Flirtation Walk.
14. MAIN OFFICE--Tuition and Miss Mid-dleditch.
15. MECH. LAB.--A conglomeration of machinery, thermometers, and a whistle.
16. MEN'S CLUB--Bowling, billiards, etc. Baseball games, via the radio, in season.
17. WOMEN'S CLUB--"Colossal"--Robert Garland, World Telegram.
18. FOUNTAIN--A charming bit of architecture which spurts water during Art School Receptions.
19. ART SCHOOL ELEVATOR--Something you watch going the other way. If it's going your way it's too crowded.
20. FLAGPOLE--Where everyone has a snapshot taken sooner or later.
21. ATHLETIC FIELD--Pratt Bowl to you. Yeah, it looks more like a bowl of grapenuts.
22. PRATT INSTITUTE--Where the better class of people go, (in case anyone of importance has read this).

SOCIAL

ARTSMEN SKYWAYS DANCE

ARCHITECTS' DANCE

1. Everybody welcomed the opening of the social season with the Art School Reception on September 21st. Faculty and students met for the first time informally.

2. Those three famous organizations: the Paletteers, Artsmen, and the Architects got together at the first "Howdy" afternoon dance to welcome new students on September 25th.

3. The Architects followed up with another afternoon dance on October 9th, drawing a gay crowd.

4. Another afternoon dance, October 16th, this time sponsored by the peppy Artsmen—'nough said.

5. The Paletteers evened the score with their "double-cut" afternoon dance on October 30th.

6. Tuesday, November 13th. The Artsmen gave their "Dance of November." Remember?

7. Then came one of the outstanding highspots of the social year, the Artsmen's "Skyways Dance" on November 23rd. They labored tirelessly to bring individuality to their affair, and were rewarded by the response of a crowd which made merry in a manner appropriate to such surroundings. The whole school turned out for it and never was the atmosphere gayer, or the music sweeter, or the Continental more gracefully executed. More laurels to the Artsmen for their originality and imagination in decoration.

8. Paletteers, Artsmen, and Architects greeted "Santa Claus Hartman" on December 18th, with great hilarity. Presents were distributed to the faculty amid much laughter. The dance afterward was in true holiday spirit, with mistletoe, candy canes, and a Christmas tree.

9. January 30th was a gay evening for the Artsmen. Their annual banquet was filled with fun and frolic.

10. Another "Howdy" dance for the new midterm students was given by the three organizations, February 12th.

11. The Architects ran their evening dance on March 2nd, producing something new and different in the form of "Six Spirits of Rhythm," late of Claude Hopkin's band. They supplied pep and vivacity to the evening in their own inimitable style. This proved to be the second outstanding dance of the year.

SPOTLIGHT

12. On March 27th the Art School thought of something new and different. 'Twas the "Art School on Parade"; girls and boys, and such parade of laughs you never did see. Memorial Hall was filled over capacity. The Architects and Artists proved their versatility by turning actors and comedians. Later, dancing and refreshments, continuing the fun, made the evening one of the very best.

13. Then the Paletteers went to town in a big way. They brought the Circus to Pratt on March 16th. This dance was undoubtedly the third great highspot of our crowded year. How did you like the hot dogs and pink lemonade? See the fat lady and the rubber shimmy girls! Everything was in perfect harmony under the circus tent that night. The men on the flying trapezes were in their usual good shape.

PALETTEERS' CIRCUS DANCE

1. The Senior Dietitians welcomed the Juniors with a tea on October 23rd.

2. The Juniors reciprocated with a tea for the Seniors on November 6th.

3. The Junior Dietetics Class began the social season of the H. S. & A. school with their dance on February 16th. It established, for them, a reputation as a class headed for social success during their stay at Pratt.

4. Many went marching to the "March Hare" dance of the Senior Diets on March 22nd. The music was "a la Lombardo," and a happy good time was had by all.

5. We spent a charming "Night in Spain" as guests of the Home Economics Club on May 11th. It was so realistic that tangos and castanets were quite in order.

1. The Student Council ran an afternoon dance, the proceeds of which went to the Red Cross. It was nobly supported. The Student Council is to be complimented in aiding such a good cause.

2. Right after the Christmas vacation the Student Council began the social whirl again with an afternoon dance, January 8th.

3. And finally the Senior Prom! Edna Kramer, heading the Dance Committee, has been working diligently, though under unprecedented difficulties due to the fact that there are no graduating engineers. However, the Seniors hold great expectations. This closes our 1934-1935 social season. It is the Seniors last grand fling, and the final touch to a school career.

1. As usual, the second year Chemists scored the first evening dance success, November 9th.

2. The second year Mechanicals kept up the pace with their barn dance, and everybody but Hezzie, the cow, was there.

3. The Wohler Chemical Society ran its formal closed dance on April 12th. A smooth affair!

THE STUDENT COUNCIL

DONALD P. HOGAN
LUCILLE M. FALCON
CHARLES S. ALTEMUS

President
Vice-President
Secretary-Treasurer

The Student Council, following the precedent set in previous years, has striven to maintain all social and athletic student life on the usual high plane. It has particularly endeavored to increase school spirit and arouse even more enthusiasm in support of the various activities. Nothing, of course, could have been accomplished without the cooperation of all schools.

The first meeting was held on October 29th at the Women's Club. This was an informal get-together. The new presidents became acquainted and discussed possibilities for the coming year.

It was necessary to swing into action immediately. For the first time, the Prattonia board was elected by the Student Council. All names for the various positions were accepted and voted on by the presidents. In so doing, the student body was given more of an opportunity to voice its opinion through votes cast by its representatives. The council is satisfied that a better board could not have been elected, and feels that this book is sufficient proof that the new method is completely satisfactory.

During the Red Cross drive the Student Council sponsored a dance, the profits of which were turned over to that organization. This was a new method of raising our donation. Previously a certain amount of money had been appropriated from the treasury. Another dance was sponsored upon the return of the students after the Christmas holidays.

Then came the basketball season, which constituted the main part of our socially athletic life. Every week each president was given tickets to sell for the coming game. This method brought the students into easier contact with the activity. As a result, the attendance at the games was greatly increased.

But the most important work of the year is the Senior Prom. It has been a very difficult problem because there are no graduating engineers. Nevertheless, the affair is in capable hands, and a Prom as fine as any in the past is expected. The council appreciates the time and effort the dance committee has given.

After the election of a new president all work will be completed. And then comes the annual Student Council boat ride. This closes the social season for 1934-35.

It is the earnest wish of the council that the students continue to give full support to all school activities, and consequently allow future councils to attempt greater things. The success of the council depends on the cooperation of all students; for its existence is purely for the aid and convenience of the student body.

To the council for 1935-36 we extend our sincere wishes for a happy and successful year.

THE PALETTEERS

In closing the Paletteer year of 1934-35, it is due time for review of our progress. With the Architects and the Artsmen, we opened the season with a gala "Howdy" dance. By the time our annual banquet came around we were old friends, and therefore the gaiety of the evening was increased. Our afternoon dances were welcomed by the students. Then came the Christmas party, in which we joined ranks with the Architects and Artsmen again. But the big affair for the Paletteers was the Circus Dance. Many thanks are due the committee for their splendid work. We also take special pride in the part we played in the "Art School on Parade." The Paletteers are looking forward to their spring boat ride which closes their social season.

Before leaving we want to take this opportunity to welcome the new officers and extend to them our best wishes for a prosperous year.

THE ARTSMEN

The school year was opened with the coöperative "Howdy" dance, followed by a series of monthly afternoon dances. The "Skyways Dance" and Artsmen banquet were highly successful social functions.

An important part of the Artsmen program was the series of exhibitions and lectures presented by prominent artists and designers.

In athletics the Artsmen were favorably represented at soccer, basketball, swimming, and bowling.

To the officers of 1936, in whose hands the future success of the organization will rest, the present officers extend their good wishes in the carrying on of the tradition which they so earnestly sought to uphold.

THE ARCHITECTS

This organization, which is made up of the three classes in the department of architecture, has had a year of varied activities.

The social season commenced with a get-together smoker followed by an afternoon "Howdy" dance especially planned to help new students get acquainted. The Architects' evening dance, this year with novel entertainment as a feature, was another event looked forward to by the entire school. The annual banquet of this organization was held at the Architectural League of New York, with an outstanding member of the profession as guest speaker.

The Architects won the soccer and bowling championships, and are proud of their participation in the field of sports.

This has been an interesting year for the Architects, and their success as a group will long be remembered.

THE ARTISANS

The Artisans Club is composed of the students of the Dressmaking and Costume Design classes. Its object is to acquaint the members with the aspects of the clothing field, aside from what is gained in class.

Miss Hogan, a supervisor of clothing in the New York Public School System, was a guest at one of our teas. She explained the manner of teaching in both vocational and high schools. Mr. Dahne from Columbia University gave a brilliant talk to the Artisans about stage costuming. The club members are appreciative of the contacts made through the various speakers.

HOME ECONOMICS

The Home Economics Club has had one of the most successful years since its beginning.

The annual tea for the New York High schools was outstanding from both a social and educational viewpoint. Miss Margaret Weber, former president of the club, spoke to the group. Her explanation of the work of the National Association was extremely interesting. The officers were graciously entertained at a tea given by the New York University Home Economics Club, and at a dinner given by Mrs. Hoeg, adviser of city school clubs. Our organization entertained members of the home economics groups of the New York Colleges. These social functions are preliminary steps in the organization of a city-wide college home economics association which we hope will be realized in the near future.

A dietetics club has been formed at Pratt this year through the efforts of the Home Economics Club.

THE DIETITIANS

The Dietetics Club was formed by a group of Senior and Junior Dietetics during the month of January 1935. The purpose of the club is to bring the students in closer contact with outstanding individuals who are actually working in the various fields of Dietetics. It is felt that in this way the girls will be better able to decide which phase of the profession appeals to them most.

One of our most interesting meetings was the initial one at which Miss Gladys Hill, Dietitian of Vanderbilt Clinic, Presbyterian Medical Center, spoke concerning the work of the clinic, stressing particularly special diets and racial peculiarities. This presented some new material to the girls and they were in one accord in favor of the newly organized club.

THE MEN'S CLUB

The Men's Club has offered means of bringing into closer association students of the Art and S. & T. schools.

Bowling and pool are the featured recreational sports of the club, and many of the students have spent their moments of leisure amusing themselves at either of these sports. The tournaments conducted at the club were interesting and enjoyable to all of the participants.

The spacious and well equipped reading rooms have also been enjoyed and appreciated by many.

As always in the past, the Men's Club has faithfully served as the recreational center for the men of the Institute.

THE WOMEN'S CLUB

The girls of Pratt Institute owe a vote of thanks to the Women's Club. Some of our pleasantest hours were spent at the candle light teas in the reception room. The warm glow of the fire, the games of charades, and the friendly hospitality of Miss Owens and Dorothy McMahon, to say nothing of the delicious cookies they baked for us, all helped to draw the students more closely together. We shall long remember the dining room during noon hour, the reception rooms with the radio, the piano, and the latest magazines, the monthly dinners with their educational but informal talks, and the garden in the spring.

The club is a center of recreation and a pleasant place to work. We present an orchid to Miss Owens, whose friendship and hospitality have contributed toward a very happy year.

THE PRATT INSTITUTE BRANCH OF THE AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF ELECTRICAL ENGINEERS

The Pratt Institute branch of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers holds its meetings with the purpose of giving the students practice in presenting technical papers, holding interesting technical discussions, and hearing talks given by instructors of the school and prominent outside speakers.

Frequently inspection trips are sponsored by the branch to allow the students to see modern and efficient installation of electrical equipment.

The membership this year has increased satisfactorily, and with the entrance of the third electrical class next fall the branch anticipates a much larger enrollment.

W O H L E R S O C I E T Y

The school year of 1934-35 has been one which will long be remembered by the members of the Wohler Chemical Society. The regular meetings held in the Men's Club provided an opportunity to get together, and to promote a better spirit of friendship and cooperation. These meetings featured prominent speakers from the Industrial Chemical Engineering field, whose talks were usually supplemented by technical films.

The society's annual formal dance, held late in April, was again the most successful event of its social season. The annual banquet, held at the Chemists' Club in New York, brought the season to a close.

THE S. & T. CONVENTION

The Eighth Annual Science and Technology School Convention, held April 24th under the direction of the electrical students, maintained its reputation of being one of the high spots of the school year. It also proved to be one of the most interesting conventions ever held in the school.

The afternoon session was devoted to the presentation of technical papers. The entertainment consisted of various acts presented by students of all classes.

The evening session was held after a very enjoyable banquet in the school cafeteria. The main feature was an illustrated lecture given by Orestes H. Caldwell, editor of the magazine, "Electronics," on the modern use of the electronic tube.

SONS AND BROTHERS OF ALUMNI CLUB

This club was organized last year, in the Science and Technology School, under the supervision of Mr. MacKenzie.

The purpose of the club is to organize relatives from the S. & T. School in order that they may assist with the Alumni Day program, cooperate with the faculty on all visitor's days, and offer their assistance in any other way in which they can. This year they hope to take a larger part in the Alumni Day exercises.

The A.S.M.E. of this year has progressed along the usual lines of the branch of preceding years. It has added another sub-branch, the automotive branch, composed of those men whose interests lie in the automobile field. During the year they have had numerous meetings with the cooperation of outside speakers.

The activities of the A.S.M.E. have been numerous and interesting. As well as the usual meetings, there have been many informal gatherings at which moving pictures were shown. These pictures were composed of various industrial plants and processes. In addition there have been inspection trips to industrial plants and exhibits.

The A.S.M.E. takes this time to acknowledge the leadership of Mr. Hunter, Mr. Knowles, and Mr. Cameron.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q. Who is the big bad wolf of the art school?

A. Corny Hartman—bless his heart.

Q. Which smart looking blonde miss has a million of "em"?

A. Fran Scheu. You fill in the "em" part.

Q. Who wears everything but her shoes backwards?

A. Ginny Fleck—and maybe she's doing that by this time, too.

Q. What's another name for Mutt and Jeff?

A. Helen Straus and Eunice Henriques.

Q. Who's got a Southern drawl and comes from upstate N. Y.?

A. Bill Ely—he has that sleepy look too.

Q. Who's the one man band and a couple of other nice things?

A. Doug Beck—or is it "Froggie" Beck?

Q. Who looks like Carole Lombard and acts like anything but?

A. Dot Montgomery, and the "but" makes her much nicer to know.

Q. Whose haircomb is unique; merely because he doesn't comb it?

A. Paul Anton—and look how becoming it is.

Q. Who changes his course with his moods?

A. Harry Limmer—he might be an engineer by now.

Q. Who's the ideal choir boy?

A. Ira Ditzel—and he's still a nice fellow.

Q. What gentleman prefers blondes—one after the other?

A. Herb Verse.

Q. Who finds a strange attraction in barber poles?

A. Jimmie Campbell.

Q. Who walks around with a song in his heart and love in his eyes?

A. George Tumey.

Q. Who always has the only solution to the problem?

A. Bill Brower.

Q. Who wards off the evil hour in the Senior Dietetics class?

A. Dot Clark with, "Wait till next week, we haven't studied for this exam."

Q. What young chap found his trousers hanging from the rafters in the Chem Lab?

A. Kasimer Jaros (note: he was the last victim of the current season.)

Q. What board member praises the Navy and why?

A. Lois Werner 'cause Army reviews call Paul away at most inopportune times—May he join the Navy!

Q. Who says—"Rain or shine, the L.I.R.R. is never on time."

A. Rhoda Schoen—Who did you think?

Q. Who lost something on 5th Ave. and 42nd St.?

A. Ask Clarice—is her face red?

Q. Why do Senior Dietetics dislike English Parliament?

A. The scrolls remind them of Helen Ostrosky's nutrition chart and the disastrous results it produced.

Q. Who is the proud possessor of the 1934-35 hand-shaking trophy?

A. Don Gottsch—ask him about his encounter with one of the Math Profs.

Q. If you were to see a furrowed brow trudging tragically along Grand Ave., who would it be?

A. That dark silent man from Shelter Island, Scottie Lucas. And what's behind said brow? Guess?

Q. For a while it was a tight race between Anderson and Bailly for the hand of a fair Palettter. And who won?

A. A tie. Neither got to first base.

ATHLETIC FOREWORD

Physical Education in varying amounts is part of the curriculum of all men students in the Institute. This requirement for various reasons is too little and must be considered as rather inadequate. It is, however, the optional participation in recreational and competitive athletics which presents the most attractive side of the Physical Education program. While the set up for organized athletic sports is not as varied as one might perhaps wish, opportunity is afforded all classes for participation in Soccer, Football, Basketball, Swimming, Baseball, Fencing, Boxing, Bowling, and Hand Ball. Varsity teams are maintained in Basketball and Baseball.

During the past twenty years, the student body has been divided athletically into seven teams representing seven classes. This division has afforded an almost ideal arrangement for a maximum participation to the limit of our time and facilities. With the advent of three year courses in the school of Science & Technology, a different set up must be developed to admit of Fall and Spring schedules sufficiently short to complete in the given time.

The aggregate number of students competing in one or more of the above activities is creditably large. The rewards derived from such participation are decidedly real and worth while. Athletics broaden social intercourse and stimulate democratic tendencies. Of all our student activities, athletics are most intensive in their influence. At Pratt, in past years, they have been the center of much of the informal social life, and have been instrumental in developing goodfellowship between classes and among individual students. Athletics, perhaps more than any phase of student life, promotes loyalty and school spirit and contributes much toward the making of good citizens.

The following pages depict the outstanding events and personalities in the athletic program of the past year.

ATHLETIC COUNCIL

The Athletic Council was organized in 1922. Its purpose is to govern athletics, to make awards, and to regulate all men's interclass sports. Since its beginning, the Council has constantly striven to raise the standard of athletics and provide programs of the highest order.

The Council consists of two representatives from each of the men's classes in the Institute. Meetings are held weekly in the Men's Club, and current business is transacted.

The Council is very ably advised by the faculty, as represented by Mr. Wright, Mr. Histetter, and Mr. Ajootian. Considerable interest was shown in all interclass sports during the year and friendly rivalry rose high. There were approximately thirty varsity awards made this year, and forty interclass awards.

V A R S I T Y

With the return of four members of last year's varsity team, and some promising new material, the outlook for a fine team seemed likely. However, injuries to two regulars, Earl Mandle and John Mardy, made it impossible for Coach McKillop to organize a team which functioned smoothly at all times. This was especially true during the five-game losing streak.

Johnny Reiser was, of course, the chief scoring threat; while Earl Mandle proved the defensive bulwark. Never flashy, Earl, in his three years as a regular, proved to be cool and steady at all times.

Three Freshmen made the grade as regulars: Sam Gilman, John Mardy, and Howard Havemeyer. With the addition of Leo Pantas, who has at times shown signs of greatness, this quarter should form a formidable nucleus for next year. A grand season is predicted despite the presence of such teams as Columbia, Lehigh, M. I. T., Dickinson, and St. Lawrence on the schedule.

Proper thanks and praise should be given to the managers, Maynard Brewster and Ed. Reynolds, who were capable and efficient at all times. Another wreath should be presented to Coach McKillop for guiding the quintet so capably.

Pratt—28

St. Peter's—22

The opening game of the year presented a well balanced Pratt team scoring a victory over St. Peter's College. Captain Reiser, as usual, outscored everyone with ten points. A total of twenty-three fouls was called on the visiting team, three of their men being put out of the game in the first half.

Rensselaer Poly—33

Pratt—25

Traveling to Troy, New York, we met our first defeat of the season. Pratt displayed a tricky offensive, which held R. P. I. even at the half. Then Earl Mandle, stellar guard, twisted his leg and was removed from the game. His replacement proved ineffective, and Rensselaer swept on to victory.

Dickinson—26

With Johnny Reiser scoring eight points in a row before Dickinson could find itself, Pratt won a well earned decision, leading all the way. Johnny Mardy proved his defensive prowess by bottling up Ed Kintzing (6' 7"), Dickinson's center; as the other Johnny went on a scoring orgy of twenty-three points.

Pratt—35

Cooper Union—16

The Black and Gold coasted to an easy victory over a weak Cooper Union quintet. Once again "Senor" Reiser was the big scoring punch. "Specs" Gilman starred defensively by keeping Bill Lang, the star of Cooper Union, from scoring.

Pratt—42

Cathedral—18

Continuing its sensational form, Pratt won its fourth game in five. Rolling up a 23-6 lead at half time the issue was never in doubt, despite the absence of Johnny Mardy who was out due to a fractured finger. "Howdy" Havemeyer ably filled his position, scoring nine points and aiding materially in a flashy passing attack.

Springfield—34

Pratt—27

Pratt suffered its second defeat of the season at the hands of the well balanced Springfield five. Scoring twenty points, Johnny Reiser received thunderous applause from a huge gallery. Pratt was ahead 16-15 at half time, but failed to cope with Springfield's attack in the second half.

Worcester Poly—30

Pratt—26

In a ragged, uninteresting contest, Pratt received its second setback in two days. Once again, it was a case of collapsing in the second half after assuming a 15-14 lead at the half. Sloppy passing by both teams made the contest a very dull one.

B A S K E T B A L L

Providence—40

Providence College brought a tall rangy squad to our gym, and thoroughly outclassed our fellows. The "Friars" led 15-8 at the half, and put on a tremendous spurt in the last half. Norm. Belliveau, of the visitors, scored four sensational long shots.

Northeastern—28

Once again the team lost a hard fought game, despite the return of Johnny Mardy to the line-up. Bill Morse, Northeastern's forward who scored thirteen points, was outshone by our own star, Johnny Reiser, who totaled sixteen points.

Crescent A. C.—40

Pratt suffered its fifth consecutive setback at the hands of the classy Crescent quintet. With the Crescents leading 14-7 at the end of twenty minutes, both outfits participated in a wild scoring orgy on their return to the floor. Johnny McGuiness held "Blinker" Reiser to a single field goal.

Pratt—22

Snapping back into the winning column, Pratt defeated Poly, 22-18. Despite ragged passing by both teams, the game proved very interesting. "Howdy" Havemeyer played brilliantly against his former team mates. A total of twenty fouls was called in this game.

Pratt—19

Pratt—23

Pratt—25

Pratt—36

Pratt flashed a speedy passing attack which swamped the purple team under a deluge of fifteen field goals. "Chick" Ostrowski, all New England forward of Holy Cross, was held to three points by "Howdy" Havemeyer; while Johnny Reiser turned in the greatest performance of his sensational career, scoring twenty-four points.

Pratt—27

Johnny Reiser led his team to another victory, and closed his inter-collegiate career by tallying nineteen points. Poly rallied in the second half and tied the score at twenty-one points with two minutes to go. Then our fellows scored six points in a row to repeat last year's performance of winning both games with our ancient rivals.

Pratt—39

With the Alumni furnishing little opposition, Pratt concluded its basketball season. Walter Beaghen, elongated center of the Alumni, led the scoring brigade with twelve points before being removed in favor of the popular Johnny Forsythe. "Mark" Munklewitz also proved effective for the "grads."

V A R S I T Y

As in previous years, the record of the varsity baseball team for 1934 will be given in order that Prattonia may be printed on schedule.

Pratt faced its stiffest schedule in years with the return of but four regulars and two substitutes: Captain Zalinsky, Pascucci, Condict, Clark, Concannon, and Zedler. As a result, the team fared rather poorly winning but two games and losing five. The Black and Gold showed real punch at the plate, compiling a team average of .310. Very weak pitching and extremely bad fielding accounted for most of the losses. Mac Gitlin, stellar first baseman, led the nine in hitting with an average of .571, followed by Andy Marck and Captain Ed Zalinsky with averages of .522 and .450.

Wagner College was our first opponent. A thrilling last inning rally in which two runs were scored by Pascucci's single, with the bases loaded, gave Pratt its first victory. Tony Sforza pitched brilliantly, aided and abetted by "Zilch" Zalinsky's three singles.

Andy Marck was sent to the mound against C.C.N.Y. and was batted out in the first inning. Three other flingers also failed to outlast Phil Cooperman, City College hurler, who limited Pratt to three scattered singles.

In a wild orgy of hitting, Long Island University trounced our nine 23-6. Eight glaring errors, combined with the ineffective pitching of our five pitchers, once again proved too much to overcome the opposition.

Stevens won the fourth game on our schedule. Nick Crespy struck out seventeen Pratt batters which, combined with eighteen hits by his team-mates, was sufficient to win the game. Andy Marck banged out five hits in five official times at bat.

The team traveled to Kingston, R. I., to suffer another loss, 13-2. Andy Marck went to the box, lasting the full route. His team-mates garnered twelve hits, but they were unable to bunch them in the clinches. Once again, the issue was decided in the early innings when Rhode Island scored nine runs. Erratic fielding again proved a contributing factor to this defeat.

St. John's College inflicted the fifth successive loss on the plucky Pratt aggregation. Five hits, which produced five runs for St. John's in the first inning, were sufficient to send Andy Marck scurrying to the showers. Tony Sforza and Frank Wiseburn were equally unfortunate in their efforts on the mound. The game featured two home-runs by Mac Gitlin. Pratt showed a decided improvement afield, but again, pitching talent was lacking.

The schedule was completed with a victory over a strong Alumni team. Johnny Concannon pitched a steady game, effectively scattering the eight hits he granted. Once again, Andy Marck proved the batting hero, scoring two runs himself and batting in three others. Tony Chuisano, former brilliant in left field, shone at bat for the Alumni, gathering three hits in three times at bat. After the game, Marck was elected captain for next season, and Carl Schmidt manager.

TRIBUTE TO A CHAMPION

Johnny Reiser's is a name that will remain forever foremost in the annals of Pratt's athletic history. Winner of a scholarship, he was one of the finest students in his class. His conduct on the court and on the campus made him one of the most popular students in school.

During his three years at Pratt, Johnny scored 632 points in 41 games, an average of sixteen points per game. His style of shooting while pivoting away from the basket made utterly useless any attempt to guard him.

Perhaps the best way to describe him is to quote from some of the statements made about Johnny.

"Pratt Institute was fortunate to have had so fine and outstanding a player as Johnny. His record will no doubt stand for all time in Pratt history. It is a pleasure to pay tribute to so fine a player, sportsman, and gentleman."

COACH McKILLOP

"One of the least publicized basketball players in the metropolitan district who is as good with one hand as other players are with two."

NEW YORK WORLD TELEGRAM

"Would have been heralded as the year's greatest find had he been privileged to play with a better known outfit—forward on an all-star-team."

WILLIAMSBURG NEWS

"The best single man we met all year."

SPRINGFIELD TEAM

"A modern Argus who seemingly has eyes in the back of his head. His uncanny work so thrilled the crowd that, when this Pratt Paragon sauntered to the bench, they accorded him salvo after salvo of deafening applause."

SPRINGFIELD REPUBLICAN

"His southpaw shooting is one of the seven wonders of the world. Forward on all-star-team."

BROOKLYN TIMES UNION

"The best one hand shot in basketball that I have ever seen."

DAVE WALSH, Pres. E.I.A.A.

"John Reiser during his three years at Pratt has shown outstanding ability. I consider him one of our most talented students, and prophesy for him a brilliant future."

MISS GEORGIA EVEREST

CHEER LEADING

Early in the Fall, the first call for competition for the cheer leading squad came. "Howie" Burr, Varsity cheer leader, sounded the annual clarion. Chosen from among the candidates for the team were Ed Smith and Bill Coiro. They were an enthusiastic trio and by the time the season was completed each man had had the privilege of leading the others in at least one game.

The cheer leaders wish to offer their thanks to the students for their fine sport and spirit displayed during the past season.

B I G P I N S

For the second time in the history of this sport, the championship was won by an Art School quintet. This surprising feat in the Architects' rush to the title was the fact that the team was made up of entirely new material, all of last year's men having graduated. The squad, as a whole, handled the mineralite well, and experienced very little trouble winning all of their matches by large margins. The team consisted of Captain Martin Chandler, Eli Constantine, Edward Von Gerichten, Frank Benevich, and Ira Ditzel.

D U C K P I N S

Another victory for the Mechanical Class! The Mechs. '36 won the Duck Pin Bowling Championship. Although they started the season slowly, they ended up in a blaze of glory.

Try as they did the second year Mechs. could not carry on where the '34 Mechs. left off in the Big Pins, and ended the season just about fifty-fifty. But, when the Duck Pin Tournament came around, that was a different story. Not looked upon as a contender for the championship, the '36 Mechs. proved to be the dark horse and they upset the dope, winning five straight to literally take the championship from the Architects who won it last year.

The team boasts of the following men: R. Anderson, D. Duncan, R. Haggerty, Norton, R. Tefft, A. Vaccaro, and finally R. Holzmacher manager.

BOXING 1934 - 35

Top row—Burnard York, Harry Kukiel, Roderick Cowles, Algis Narvydas, John Sharko, Alex Rimash, Jon Nielsen.

Middle row—M. Lewis Baldessari, Andrew Marck, Franklin Hurtt, Donald Fay, Robert McKay, George C. Lay, Emilio Ciccone.

Bottom row—William Cairo, Lewis Erera, Anthony Figliolino, John Finnegan, Louis Estrada, Harry Parizer, Charles G. Cano, (Coach).

The 1934-35 Boxing Team coached by Charles G. Cano enjoyed a most successful season. All sessions functioned very smoothly with the men displaying an unusually fine spirit of coöperation and perseverance.

From all present appearances boxing easily promises to become a most popular year 'round sport.

MEN'S FENCING

The Athletic department was very pleased with the splendid showing in the fencing group this year. The team has already started on a promising career by defeating Stevens Tech. of Hoboken, New Jersey, in its first outside competition. Under the able direction of Coach Stevens the fencing team has developed into good material for future intercollegiate competition.

Henry Baucili captured the interclass fencing medal given by Coach Stevens, and according to precedent became Captain of the team. Abner B. Cohen, runner-up who made an excellent showing in the Stevens-Pratt meet, is second man. Monroe Zornberg is third, Edward Leimseider is fourth, and Frederick Lange is substitute.

Sidney Berkman, manager, has arranged other intercollegiate meets in which Pratt hopes to be victorious.

INTERCLASS SWIMMING

The Mechanical Engineers of the class of '37 have at last gained their objective. They have won a championship. This feat was accomplished through the swimming ability of Jerry Friedenber, George Dahl, and Fred Philitowrtz. Frederick Lange also displayed many good points, swimming with Richard Wadsworth as his mate. Frank Holmgren and George Salmon did well in the free style.

The first meet was a huge success and started the boys off in fine style. The competition soon narrowed down, leaving only the Artsmen to test the strength of the first year Mechanicals. The Artsmen swam a good meet but couldn't quite make enough points to win. The final score was 28-23 in favor of the Mechanicals. This meet had the closest score of any held this year. The Artsmen and Mechanicals met once more in the pool, to decide the championship. This time the Mechanicals won by a score of 32-18.

A sincere hope, that such events will be held again in the years to come, is here expressed. So good luck swimmers, and good swimming.

INTERCLASS SOCCER

The importance and interest in this sport has increased by leaps and bounds since last year. Not only was the interclass championship won by the Architects again, but a varsity was formed from the best material of all classes. This eleven played several outside games with such teams as Paterson State Normal and Morningside Heights. The varsity, without any practice or supervision whatever, made a fairly good showing. Next year we hope to see better results.

The Architects, with Edward Van Gerichten as captain, clearly showed their superiority over all other classes by winning the championship. The only team which equaled the T square pushers was the Mechanical I outfit. The Mechanical I team is going to be hard to stop next year! Watch our fellows!

INTERCLASS BASKETBALL

The Mechanicals carry on! Last year the I.M.E. '34 won the championship by going through the season undefeated. This year the I.M.E. '36 did likewise by winning twelve more games, thus making the Mechanical total for two years, twenty-four straight games.

There are many oddities connected with the team. The team never had a practice session; there was no individual star on the team, each man played as a team; with the exception of both Art games, the championship was a pushover.

In the first Art game, the half ended with the Artsmen leading by a 14-4 score. However, the Mechs. came back in the second half by scoring twenty points in twelve minutes, to win by a 24-20 score. In the second Art game the score was 16-15 in favor of the Artsmen, with one minute to play. Then from a remote corner of the court, Mac Gitlin tossed a miracle shot which won the game.

The team was managed by Johnny "Lemons" Limaurov who did his utmost to preserve the winning spirit and harmony within the team.

DEPARTMENT OF PHYSICAL EDUCATION FOR WOMEN

In the Department of Physical Education for Women, one half of the year's work is allotted to outdoor sports and swimming. The rest of the year, during the cold weather, the curriculum is composed of gymnastics and the work of the various clubs, such as the fencing, dancing, and basketball clubs. This year riding was introduced for the first time, and was met with a great deal of enthusiasm.

In the Fall, the Household Arts and Science School was successful in winning both the hockey and volley ball tournaments, but they were defeated in the swimming meet by the Fine and Applied Arts School, 51-48. The Junior Dietitians won the volley ball tournament from the first year Art team, 45-26; and the Senior Costume Design team was victorious in hockey over the Teacher Training group, 2-1.

Last Spring the Fine and Applied Arts School again won the swimming meet, defeating the Household Science and Arts School, 52-33. The second year Illustration team won the volley ball tournament from the Junior Dietitians, 39-31; and the baseball tournament was won by the Senior Dietitians and the Senior Costume Designers over the second year Teacher Training team, 5-3.

Senior Life Saving is given in both the Fall and Spring. This year eleven girls passed the test.

The annual Spring gym meet was very successful. It featured gymnastics by members of the various classes, rhythm and tap dancing by the dancing clubs, a basketball game, and the finals of the fencing tournament in which Marjorie Lester won over Maude Bygland.

Everyone feels that the curriculum of the Department of Physical Education for Women has been well balanced and highly beneficial.

Regardless of how strong we may be we often weaken and sometime during the course of the year we are bound to need physical care and attention. Perhaps more in the middle of the year than any other time, there are a great many sore throats and over-worked minds around the Institute, and it is then that we are glad we have a Rest House and the attentive services of Miss Hale and Mrs. Hatch. We more than appreciate their motherly care and their attention to any required first-aids.

The new students often feel timid about giving attention to their illnesses and fail to visit our health center at 244 Vanderbilt Avenue. But once they have become acquainted they realize the wonderful care we are given, and how much more rapidly good health returns to our run down systems at this medical center.

PRATTONIA'S MARTYRS

BEN YORK—

Be calm, dear Board and dear Representatives, like the editor. Did you ever see him riled? He strolls hither, thither, and yon, and behold he's got the situation under control while everybody else is yelling wildly over whether Prattonia should be wrapped in pink or blue this year. After dividing his time among the three schools, Ben probably has to think twice before answering, when asked what he's taking at Pratt. And he still thinks being editor is a swell job.

EARL MIDDLETON—

"Middleton, you're talking too much. Teacher just suggested that the guy with the glasses tone down a little." But if that instructor only understood. When a bunch of males and females leave class to help the art editor; and then practice socking each other around instead; somebody's got to yell. Everybody has suggestions about the book, and it's Middleton's job to say "Yes" to everything and then do what's best. He pleads for prompt cooperation but nothing comes until the last minute—and then watch him sweat until press time.

CARROLL O'SHEA—

If you want to be a good business manager, you have to talk a lot and clip your words off so nobody will know what you're saying. Talk fast and they'll agree, for fear you'll say it all again and wake them up completely. O'Shea tells you what he thinks of you; and if he doesn't think anything sarcastic, makes it up. But he says it all with that famous Irish light in his eyes, so it's O. K.

"O'Shea can you see by the dawn's early light,
Whether the book will come through if we fight?"

ED HOFFMAN—

Run up and down in your shirt sleeves and mumble "Hello" at people and you're liable to be taken for the Hoffman part of the photographic team. Oh yes, and your hair must be cut in the latest farmer style, to prevent it from going askew while looking in the camera. He also can cook well, we hear. But the meal must make a good composition to his photographic eye or else he won't eat it. (He's gaining weight.)

LOU FALCON—

Stayed up until four o'clock one morning working on social news for Prattonia and hasn't stopped talking about it yet. Always claims she's busy, and very often says she's thinking. Both are taxing habits, and Lou doesn't look overworn, so draw your own conclusions. Spends a great deal of time on Prattonia since they're working in the architectural department. But she's willing to work if somebody doesn't think up a game to play, or if she doesn't think one up for herself.

RED HOGAN—

Spends his time eating occasionally, sleeping almost continually, and the rest photographing subjects. Always strolls, is invariably where he shouldn't be, and takes five minutes to gaze at you before answering a question. Despite all this individuality, he's a good egg; not easily aroused, so he probably hasn't broken many bulbs in a temper. In the heat of an argument he may revert to some quaint Irish phrase such as, "The devil it ain't!" Seriously though, Prattonia is grateful to both he and Hoffman for successfully fulfilling a difficult job.

ED HEYWOOD—

Loves grammar, which is very fortunate for Prattonia. Thinks there's nothing so discouraging as a misplaced comma. Wishes somebody would be original in the opening sentence for a write-up. Has read "Howdy Dance" in so many forms that she herself now is liable to call it the "How you vas" dance or "Hiya Kid." Can argue very seriously as to whether the word should be "on" or "at"—and compromises by leaving it out. The fact that she actually enjoys the work will be our No. 1 amazement for this year.

GEORGE DUPONT PRATT 1869-1935

A tribute paid to Charles Pratt, the Founder, at his death forty-four years ago, now belongs equally to his son George whose life ended, also most prematurely, on the twentieth of last January:

His removal from us has begun already to make manifest his true proportions. Even those who were nearest to him and knew him best, only now begin to see how lofty has been the unwavering purpose of his life, how sagacious and practical his methods, how thoroughly unselfish and humble his spirit. Not that we did not recognize these qualities in him from day to day; but that now they are seen, in the unity and perspective of his finished life, to have been even larger and nobler than we supposed.

Pratt Institute is only beginning to realize the loss of George D. Pratt. Our tribute to him is the tribute paid to his father of whom the son was worthy.

EDITH PHOEBE BUCKNAM, who had been the teacher of Cataloging in the Library School since 1922, died in Boston on April 16, 1935. Students of the classes from 1923 to 1934 will never forget Miss Bucknam's unfailing interest in them and their problems. All of her friends and colleagues will cherish the memory of her devoted and loyal service to the school.

WESLEY LEWIS REYNOLDS

In him we mourn the loss of an earnest student and a true friend.
